New Juice in Old Bottles!

Ms Pang

During Easter holiday, some P4-6 students joined Language Out Loud online workshops. They helped our students explore the interesting world of reading, writing, listening and speaking! One of the classic tales chosen is A Christmas Carol by Charles Dickens. He was a famous, talented and kind-hearted British writer. The story is about a miserable old man, Scrooge, who refused to help others in need. Later on, he met the spirits of Christmas Past, Present and Yet to Come. He was then gradually transformed into a gentle and kind man.

The activity inspired students to rewrite the beginning or ending of the stories. Please enjoy our student's work:

Rewritten Story Ending of A Christmas Carol

6A Liang Wing Yi Esme

... Scrooge didn't care. He thought changing himself wouldn't change anything. The ghosts watched from afar, sighing as Scrooge didn't want to change his fate. Although he knew what would become of him, he refused the offer. He claimed he liked the peace and quietness. They left in 'poof', leaving the same miserable old man in his empty room.

But did the ghosts want to give up? No they didn't. 'We'll need to do it the hard way!' One of the ghosts smiled sinisterly. They went back to the past, and saw a young lonely Scrooge in the empty classroom where it all started. 'Hello,' the ghost in disguise greeted him with a warm smile. 'I want to show you something!' The ghost turned into his original form and showed young Scrooge his old self.

Luckily, young Scrooge was naïve enough to believe them. Young Scrooge agreed to change, and everything became fine at the end.

What a good day! I didn't need to have online class today because of the school holiday. I stayed at home all day.

In the morning, I watched DVDs because I was bored. I felt glad after that. Then I did my Chinese homework because I was going to school the next day.

In the afternoon, I tidied my room so I felt tired. After cleaning up my room, my sister and I played games because we haven't played together for a long time. I was delighted and my sister was delighted too.

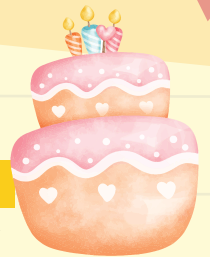

In the evening, I went to play with my brother after having dinner. However, the game was boring because only two of us played the game.

Today was a pleasant day!

A 'Surprising' Lunch

Yesterday, Sam and his friend, Sally had lunch. They found the cheapest restaurant and wanted to go there. So they could save money.

They went to the restaurant and started looking at the menu. 'Which is more popular, noodles with dumplings or chicken curry?' Sam asked Sally. Sally replied, 'The chicken curry is the bestseller here. Let's order that!'

Ten minutes later, the waiter served the food. 'Ahh! There's a fly in my chicken curry! It's sitting on the chicken wing!' shouted Sally. The waiter heard Sally screaming and rushed to see what happened.

The waiter asked, 'What happened? Is there a problem?' Sam replied, 'Yes, there is! There's a fly on her curry!' 'I am very sorry about that. I will give you a new curry without flies in it and you can have it for free,' said the waiter. Sally replied, 'Thank you very much. You are so nice!'

A Day Trip

Last week, Chris, Beth and Ken had lunch in a café. Beth suggested, 'Let's go to Sai Kung to have a trip this Saturday!' Chris and Ken felt glad and said, 'Great idea!'

On Saturday morning, they agreed to meet at the bus stop. Chris and Ken waited impatiently because Beth arrived late. Ken and Chris said, 'You should arrive early!' Beth said, 'Sorry!' She felt ashamed.

On the bus, Chris talked loudly on the phone. Ken and Beth felt disgusted. They said, 'You shouldn't talk loudly on the phone! It's so noisy!' But Chris ignored Beth and Ken. They felt angry so Chris said 'Sorry' politely and felt regretful finally.

In the evening, they had the dinner in the restaurant. Chris wanted to eat crabs. Ken wanted to eat fish. They dissented each other's ideas so they quarreled with each other. Beth felt annoyed so she said, 'Stop quarrelling! You should get on with each other!' Chris and Ken listened to Beth. They made up finally.

At last, they went home on foot. They told many funny jokes. They laughed together. Good friends should share happiness and sadness with one another.

My Favourite Film

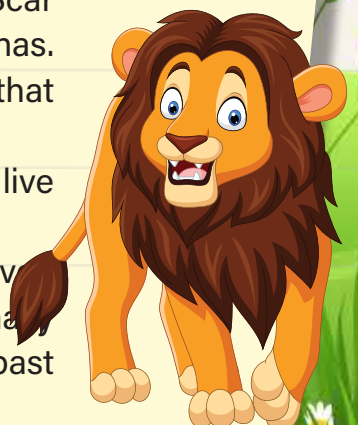

My favourite film is The Lion King. It's an animation.

This movie is about Simba's adventure. His father, Mufasa, is a lion who is the king of a prairie. One day, Mufasa goes to a canyon to help Simba. Scar is Mufasa's brother. He kills Mufasa and tells Simba to go as far as he can because Scar wants to take the throne. Simba is saved by Timon and Pumbaa in a dessert.

Simba grows up and meets his friend, Nala, Rafiki tells Simba to go home. He also tells him that Mufasa is living in him. He needs to retake the throne. Simba returns home with Nala, Timon and Pumbaa to fight with Scar and the hyaenas, Scar loses and is eaten by his subordinates, hyaenas. Simba knows that it was Scar who killed his father. Everyone is happy that Simba returns.

In the end, Simba and Nala have a child whose name is Kion. They live together happily ever after.

It was very exciting when Simba and Scar were fighting. I was relieved when Simba finally win. Also, I felt moved when I saw Simba and Nala finally met. I've learnt that we shouldn't escape our past, we should face the past and defeat fear.

Paul Learnt a Lesson

Paul looked after the sheep on the hill. He decided to make up a joke. He shouted, 'Help! Wolf!' The villagers grabbed their weapons and ran. Paul said, 'There's no wolf!' His friend, Mark said, 'Please don't tell lies again.'

Paul then cried, 'Help! My sister Dora has been taken by an ugly witch!' However, the villagers didn't believe Paul. Mark then thought, 'Oh no.'

Mark and Paul climbed up a mountain. Mark said, 'Let's go to the witch's castle.' They entered and they avoided traps in the castle.

An Apology

One day, Daisy called me. She told me that she would go to Europe for two weeks. I said, 'No problem!' After putting down the phone, I immediately put Daisy's plant to the balcony and watered it. Then I went to my room to play computer games. After an hour, I was hungry so I went to the kitchen. I saw my cat pushing the pot to the floor. I felt very worried.

Finally, I called Daisy and told her, 'Sorry, I have broken the pot of your plant.' Daisy said, 'It is ok. It doesn't matter!' In the end, Daisy forgave my fault.

During the weekend, I was playing computer games in the living room. At that time, there was a cat who went to my balcony and broke Daisy's plant! I was worried about Daisy's plant.

Today, Daisy went back to Hong Kong. I went to buy a new pot plant to her in the morning. In the afternoon, Daisy came to my home. I told her about the truth. She said, 'Don't worry!' You have already taken care of my plant! And I gave her a new pot plant. She was happy.
