English Speaking Day, full of Joy & Grace!

Satisfying moment - announcing the activity.

This year, Ms Ho and Ms Kwong are recruiting more student helpers to provide all pupils with interesting games every month.

Many of them have not been very confident in English, so at the beginning things seem to get a bit challenging for them. But in the end, many thanks for the grace of our Lord, the teachers' guidance and the helpers' hard work, their lovely and angelic voices attract loads of attention during announcement of the activities, a great prelude to the fun activities during recess!

Speaking up is a must!

*Matching sentences
with pictures.*

What a long queue!

We are the best team ever!

English Broadcast – Book Sharing

ON AIR

who recommend books on air!*

Elsa

Hitomi

Eunice

Students from P.5 and P.6 shared an English book they have read with their classmates during morning broadcast to encourage students to read English books. Research shows that students who read for pleasure perform better academically. If you want to be a smarter student, read more.

School Sports Day

Last Friday was my school Sports Day. The weather was very hot, I enjoyed the 100 meters, 200 meters and 4X100 relay. I was so nervous before the 100 meters. My competitors were all good sprinters. Although I did not win, I came second. As for the 200m race, I beat my competitors and came first!

But I enjoyed the 4X100 relay the most. I was the last one to run. When my team member handed me the baton, I kept running and running. We did not win that race, but we came second.

So, after the three races, I was so tired at night. I enjoyed the day so much!

Sports Day

Today was the inter-school's sports day. Tom, Dicky, Victor and Tony were at the sports ground. They represented their school to join the relay of the inter-school sports competition. They felt excited because they could join the relay.

Tony and Victor were on the track. Tony handed off the baton to Victor. They felt nervous because they wanted to win the relay.

After Victor received the baton, he ran fast. However, he fell over near the finishing line. He felt sad because some people laughed at him. His team members felt worried because they were afraid of losing the race.

Finally, a teacher nearby said to him, 'Victor, you can't continue the competition.' 'No! I want to continue. It is my first time to join the competition!' Victor said. 'OK! Victor, but don't run. You can walk,' the teacher said. 'Thank you, Miss Ho,' said Victor.

They lost the competition. They felt sad because they were the last team to finish the competition.
